For the past 11 years, GPN and Nexus have teamed up to recognize a deserving college student who has completed a floriculture-related internship. We want other students and floriculture companies to learn about these successful interns to help our industry prepare its next generation of professionals.

Well, it's that time of year again and we are calling for applicants for the 2011 GPN/Nexus Intern of the Year.

I have listed all of the qualifying criteria below for the intern scholarship and I have attached a one-page handout that you can pass along to any college student you know who might be interested in this program.

There is NO application form to fill out.

To qualify for the program, students must:

- * be enrolled in a four-year accredited U.S. college or university during the 2009-2010 and 2010-2011 academic years
- * be working on a floriculture-related undergraduate degree
- * have completed a greenhouse internship in 2010

The 2011 GPN/Nexus Intern of the Year will receive:

- * A $3,000 check, courtesy of Nexus Greenhouse Corp.
- * A feature-length, cover-story profile in the January 2011 issue of GPN
- * An expense-paid trip to OFA Short Course next July in Columbus, Ohio
- * A four-day Short Course registration, compliments of OFA The Association of Horticulture Professionals

Qualified applicants who would like to be considered for the 2011 GPN/Nexus Intern of the Year Award should submit the following materials:

- * a cover letter requesting consideration for the scholarship, also stating what college or university the student is attending
- * a letter of recommendation on university letterhead from the student's adviser
- * a minimum 1,000-word essay describing the internship including where the student interned, key personnel the student worked with, what his/her responsibilities were and what the student learned during the internship

If all of this criteria has been met, the student needs to mail the scholarship application to:
