

From: Marcus Duck <duckmarc@msu.edu>
Subject: 2011 Smithsonian Inst Enid A. Haupt Fellowship in Hort
Date: March 22, 2011 2:13:23 PM GMT-04:00
To: Marcus Duck <duckmarc@msu.edu>

From: "Healy, Paula" <HealyPa@si.edu>

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION
ENID A. HAUPT FELLOWSHIP IN HORTICULTURE

The Smithsonian Gardens (SG) invites applications for research fellowships in the field of horticulture. Fellowships support full-time independent, thesis and dissertation research based at SG's office in Washington, D.C. The Enid A. Haupt Fellowship in Horticulture aims to advance the knowledge and understanding of the roles and significance of horticulture in society, and to contribute to the ongoing dialog in the field. Proposals may address, but are certainly not limited to, the following topics: the cultural significance of public gardens in urban society; the environmental effects of urban settings on horticultural endeavors; art in the garden; vernacular gardens; regional garden types; the business of horticulture or floriculture; historic garden trends and design features; historic garden preservation; and public garden administration.

The Enid A. Haupt Fellowship in Horticulture, made possible by a generous endowment from philanthropist Enid A. Haupt. Applicants must be enrolled in a graduate program seeking (or have received) their Master's or Ph.D. in horticulture, landscape architecture, cultural studies, or a related discipline with a concentration in garden history or landscape studies. This fellowship is full-time, in-residence, and available for up to 6 months or 12 months, contingent upon available funding.

Application Process

Fellowships are awarded through a competitive process. To be considered for a fellowship, applicants should submit a concise proposal that includes the following:

Applicants may register and submit an application on line at Smithsonian Online Academic Appointment System

Select Horticulture Services Division, Enid A. Haupt Fellowship in Horticulture from the drop down list of programs in SOLAA.

A proposal (1,200 words or less) discussing the topic to be investigated including a thesis statement and a description of the nature and scope of the topic relative to the field of horticulture and an explanation of how this proposal will contribute to the knowledge of the topic

A review of existing literature specific to the proposed topic.

Preliminary timetable outlining the planned completion dates of significant research steps or goals.

A resume or curriculum vitae.

Transcripts from all undergraduate and graduate academic programs.

Two letters of reference from two people familiar with your academic accomplishments and research goals.

All application materials must be submitted online through SOLAA.

Deadline

Application materials must be submitted online by no later than May 15, 2011.

For additional information on the Enid A. Haupt Fellowship in Horticulture, visit http://www.gardens.si.edu/horticulture/res_ed/intern/fellow.htm .