Michigan State University Department of Horticulture,

We at Jiwa Damai are extending an invitation to agricultural programs throughout the world in hopes of reaching college level students interested in joining us in Bali for our Permaculture Certification Course, from February 24th to March 12th. Jiwa Damai is an agro-permaculture center located fifteen minutes outside of Ubud in the district of Mambal. The lush surroundings of the retreat center include a diverse array of flora and fauna that make it an ideal environment for students to be exposed to many different learning opportunities.

In addition, we are also offering a 4 week internship, Permaculture Through The Heart, from May 1st - 29th. Students have the option of taking each of the first two weeks separately if desired. Week 1 covers classical permaculture techniques. Week 2 is unfolding the HeartSelf-intelligence; an experiential transpersonal psychological approach to self exploration. These core principles will be combined for the final two weeks in the form of group and individual environmental projects.

We encourage you to forward this information to students who are currently enrolled in applicable courses of study at your university. We will accept students at various levels of education, but they should have some basic knowledge of agriculture. If you would like a more detailed description of our program, we invite you to visit our website through the link provided below. We would like to thank you in advance for your time and consideration in reading this email. If you have any further questions you may reply to the email address above.

For more information visit:

http://jiwadamai.net/activities---seminars/

Warm regards,

Dr. Margret Rueffler and the staff at Jiwa Damai

--

Jiwa Damai
Br Bindu- Mambal
Bali, Indonesia

www.jiwadamai.net